

WHISCO TV

Fundraising pack · pre-seed media · 5 September 2026

Four documents for angels, counsel, and content counterparties. Not an offering of securities. No meaningful MAU or revenue as of this date. Catalog counts are production floors. Audience and dollar figures in the companion plan are projections.

- 1 — Pre-seed data-room checklist, mapped to facts
- 2 — Pitch narrative (~2,000 words, not slides)
- 3 — One-page investor teaser (email)
- 4 — Content-partnership one-pager (Filmhub-class)

whisco.tv · legal@whisco.tv · Bahrain · Ali Albaharna

Currently unincorporated. Informal angel $200/month (non-equity) + $300 one-time budget. Free forever. No piracy. Ever.

1. Pre-seed data-room checklist

What a competent pre-seed investor in a media / streaming company will ask for, mapped against what Whisco TV actually has on 5 September 2026.

FACTS BLOCK

Use this block. Do not substitute memory or comps from US AVOD decks.

- Entity: unincorporated. Recommended vehicle: single-shareholder W.L.L. trading as Whisco TV (proposed registered name Whisco Media W.L.L.). SPC abolished by Decree 28/2020.
- Founder: Ali Albaharna, 100% intended owner.
- Funding: informal $200/month angel (non-equity, goodwill) + one-time $300 content/infra. No priced round. No SAFE. No cap table beyond founder.
- Product: whisco.tv live 20 Aug 2026. 581 active live channels. 15,696 active VOD titles. 13 languages. Official / FTA / public-domain only. ~2,360 geo-fail titles hidden.
- Monetization today: page display ads. Most VOD = official YouTube embeds (broadcaster earns in-player). AdSense in mid-Sep 2026 re-review after “low value content” remediation (7 guides, 2,680-URL sitemap).
- Apps: Android Play closed testing, 26 testers. iOS submitted 2 Sep 2026. Privacy labels: Data Not Collected.
- Filmhub: application in; phone-call invitation September 2026. No signed licence. Sought terms: rev-share, no MG, no exclusivity, GCC-cleared.
- Infra: Next.js / Vercel Pro + Neon. Burn <$50/month. Automation: 15-min uptime, 6-hour channel health, discovery crons.
- Analytics: Vercel Web Analytics (cookieless) from 3 Sep 2026. No MAU to publish.
- Policies: suite v2.0 drafted 5 Sep 2026 as templates requiring qualified legal review. Open counsel: PDPA notification/DPO, US transfers, media-licence question, DMCA agent.
- Team: solo founder + AI engineering agent. Constraint: ≤2 people until revenue pays for a second.

Status key: HAVE = exists in production or as a dated artefact. PARTIAL = draft or workstream. LACK = does not exist. N/A = not expected at this stage.

1. Corporate and legal identity

| #   | Document                          | Status  | What Whisco has / lacks                                                   | Pri |
|-----|-----------------------------------|---------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 1.1 | Certificate of incorporation / CR | LACK    | Unincorporated. Formation guide drafted. Blocks Filmhub, bank, cap table. | P0  |
| 1.2 | AoA / shareholders' agreement     | PARTIAL | Templates in formation pack. Not filed, not counsel-signed.               | P0  |
| 1.3 | CR + licensed activities          | LACK    | Codes proposed. Media-licence question still open with counsel.           | P0  |
| 1.4 | Registered address                | LACK    | Required for W.L.L. Not leased.                                           | P0  |
| 1.5 | UBO / founder CPR pack            | PARTIAL | Identity known; nothing filed.                                            | P0  |
| 1.6 | Manager appointment on Sijilat    | LACK    | No company yet.                                                           | P0  |
| 1.7 | Good-standing extract             | LACK    | Follows incorporation.                                                    | P1  |
| 1.8 | Foreign-ownership confirmation    | N/A     | Intended 100% Bahraini founder. Confirm on filing.                        | —   |
| 1.9 | Trading-as evidence               | LACK    | Brand Whisco TV vs legal Whisco Media W.L.L.                              | P1  |

Investor read: you cannot run a clean pre-seed process while the contracting party is a person. Formation is the first data-room item, not a footnote.

2. Capitalisation and financing

| #   | Document                              | Status  | What Whisco has / lacks                                      | Pri |
|-----|---------------------------------------|---------|--------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 2.1 | Fully diluted cap table               | LACK    | Founder 100% intended. Nothing issued. No option pool.       | P0  |
| 2.2 | Prior financing documents             | LACK    | $200/mo angel is undocumented goodwill. Diligence flag.     | P0  |
| 2.3 | Side-letter / SAFE / note             | PARTIAL | Template in formation pack. Not signed.                      | P0  |
| 2.4 | Bank statements 6–12 mo               | PARTIAL | Personal / informal. No corporate IBAN.                      | P1  |
| 2.5 | Use-of-proceeds                       | HAVE    | Business plan $4–$8. Any cheque is optional, not survival. | P1  |
| 2.6 | Related-party / founder-loan schedule | LACK    | Should list domain, Apple $99, infra, $300 budget.         | P1  |
| 2.7 | 409A / valuation                      | N/A     | No priced round. Do not commission one.                      | —   |

Investor read: paper the $200/month line (gift vs loan vs future equity) before a second cheque is discussed.

3. Intellectual property

| #   | Document                        | Status  | What Whisco has / lacks                                      | Pri |
|-----|---------------------------------|---------|--------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 3.1 | IP assignment founder → company | PARTIAL | Template exists. Cannot execute until the company exists.    | P0  |
| 3.2 | Trademark Whisco / Whisco TV    | LACK    | File in Bahrain after CR.                                    | P1  |
| 3.3 | Domain proof (whisco.tv)        | PARTIAL | Live 20 Aug 2026. Registrar is personal. Transfer after CR.  | P0  |
| 3.4 | App-store developer accounts    | PARTIAL | Founder accounts. Need company transfer.                     | P1  |
| 3.5 | OSS / licence inventory         | LACK    | Short SBOM. Low risk, still expected.                        | P2  |
| 3.6 | Contractor / AI-output IP memo  | PARTIAL | Founder-directed AI-agent workflow. Write who owns the code. | P1  |
| 3.7 | Brand / mascot asset list       | HAVE    | Palette and mascot in dossier. No registered design.         | P2  |

4. Content rights — the media-specific core

This is where AVOD deals die. “We only use official sources” is a claim. A 50-row rights sample is evidence.

| #    | Document                     | Status  | What Whisco has / lacks                                                                               | Pri |
|------|------------------------------|---------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 4.1  | Sourcing doctrine            | HAVE    | Official embeds, FTA HLS, public domain, later contracts. Anti-pirate is the brand.                   | P0  |
| 4.2  | Title-level rights register  | PARTIAL | Live catalog, geo-verified. No exportable ledger (source, licence type, territory, expiry, takedown). | P0  |
| 4.3  | Geo-availability evidence    | PARTIAL | Automated six-state check. ~2,360 hidden. Need a sample report.                                       | P0  |
| 4.4  | Health / takedown log        | PARTIAL | 6-hour checks; legal@; Art.52 template. No dated logbook of notices.                                  | P1  |
| 4.5  | YouTube embed ToS memo       | PARTIAL | Two-page counsel memo on embed vs public-performance vs commercial use is missing.                    | P1  |
| 4.6  | Filmhub correspondence       | PARTIAL | Phone invitation Sep 2026. No term sheet, no signed channel agreement.                                | P0  |
| 4.7  | Inbound licence template     | LACK    | Need a one-page GCC AVOD rev-share paper.                                                             | P1  |
| 4.8  | Music / collecting societies | LACK    | Own-player files will need a music answer.                                                            | P1  |
| 4.9  | Sanctions / exclusion list   | HAVE    | Blacklist in ops. Export a redacted page.                                                             | P2  |
| 4.10 | Public-domain method         | PARTIAL | Stated in policy. Sample 10 titles with the determination written down.                               | P2  |

5. Product, technology, operations

| #   | Document               | Status  | What Whisco has / lacks                                                       | Pri |

What “data-room ready” means in 90 days

- Incorporate the single-shareholder W.L.L. Open BHD + USD accounts. Move domain, stores, AdSense payee, GitHub org.
- Execute founder IP assignment and a one-page cap table (founder 100%).
- Paper the existing $200/month as gift / loan / future-equity side-letter.
- Export a 50-title rights sample + geo-fail log + takedown log in use.
- Close or kill Filmhub on written terms (no MG, no exclusivity, GCC).
- Land AdSense or document the fallback. No pop-under networks.
- Counsel letter: media-licence, PDPL notification, embed commercial-use.
- Simple cash ledger from 20 Aug 2026. Second-signatory plan for domain / stores / ads / git.

Until incorporation, bank, and the angel side-letter exist, this is a product with a story — not a company an institutional pre-seed can wire.

2. Pitch narrative

The long form, not the deck. ~2,000 words. 5 September 2026.

A two-bedroom in Juffair, or Discovery Gardens, or Salmiya, or Al Rayyan, holds more countries than most European streets. The father wants a Malayalam film after a twelve-hour shift. The mother wants a Pakistani serial she can half-watch while cooking. A cousin on the sofa is three episodes into a Turkish dizi with English subtitles. Someone's brother in the other room is hunting a Bangla news channel that does not freeze. The household already pays rent, school, and a remittance. It does not want a fourth subscription.

What it is offered instead is a stack. ZEE5 for Hindi. Something else for Malayalam. iWantTFC for Tagalog. Shahid if anyone wants Arabic premium. YuppTV if they can stand the ads and the billing desk. None of those apps were designed as a shared living-room remote. Each one is a silo with a login, a geo surprise when you travel, and a one-star thread about ads that play after you have already paid.

The other offer is the box. Five dinars, “ten thousand channels,” a WhatsApp number that goes dead at renewal, a firmware update that bricks the stick, and a stream that dies in the last over. That box is not a rounding error. It is the incumbent. It is how a large share of Gulf apartments actually watch television from home. It is also illegal, unstable, and one bad APK away from a drained bank account.

Whisco TV exists because those two offers are a false choice. A surprising amount of the television people miss from home is already lawful to watch: free-to-air broadcasts, official broadcaster channels, public-domain cinema, studio YouTube shelves that the rightsholder itself put on the open internet. It is just scattered, poorly labelled, geo-broken, and wrapped in products that either over-promise or over-advertise. The job is not to outbid MBC for football. The job is to put the legal free shelf in one honest app, keep it alive, and refuse to become the next pirate brand with better typography.

The problem, without a TAM slide in front of it

The Gulf Cooperation Council states hold on the order of thirty-one to thirty-five million foreign residents. Indians alone are something like nine to ten and a half million. Bangladeshis, Pakistanis, Filipinos, Egyptians, Nepalis, Yemenis, Indonesians, and Sri Lankans fill out a labour market that is also a television market. Households are multi-language by default. The product that treats “Indian” as one SKU is already wrong; Malayalam, Tamil, Telugu, Hindi, and Punjabi do not live in the same remote.

Legal options fragmented along language and paywall lines. Paid Arabic-first platforms — Shahid, OSN+, StarzPlay — do what they were built to do, and they do it for a different customer. Paid South Asian and Filipino apps do the same in their own lanes. Global FAST brands that make the category look solved in the United States are thin or absent on Gulf iPhones: as of early September 2026, Tubi and Pluto TV are not listed on the iOS stores in the UAE, Saudi Arabia, or Bahrain. The App Store gap is real. The Play Store is crowded with shells that look like live TV and behave like a risk.

A store audit of fifteen listed apps, also September 2026, produced a complaint ranking that should embarrass the category. Number one is ad overload on products that call themselves free — five ads in a row, ads that freeze and never unfreeze, premium tiers that still serve commercials. Then buffering, then billing surprises, then subscriptions that vanish after payment, then geo holes, then missing subtitles. Nobody in that set is a clean multi-language free legal hub with a no-signup living-room remote and a cap on advertising. That is not a slogan. It is a hole in the shelf.

Pirate IPTV fills the hole because it is simple to explain: one box, every language, cheap. It wins on assortment theatre and loses on trust. Whisco's bet is that a household which has already been burned by a dead reseller, or which simply does not want malware on the same network as a salary app, will take a smaller legal catalogue that actually plays. We will not win the customer who only wants the Premier League. We say so, in the product. Honesty is cheaper than a sports right and more useful than a landing-page claim.

The product that exists, not the product on a roadmap slide

Whisco TV went live at whisco.tv on 20 August 2026. It is a free, advertising-supported streaming service. No account is required. No subscription will ever be required. The name is the founder's Shih Tzu. The interface is dark and quiet on purpose. The advertising rule is one slot per page, never against the player, no pop-unders, no redirect networks, no fake traffic. That rule exists because the research said ad abuse is how “free TV” apps die in public.

As of 5 September 2026 the production catalogue holds 581 active live channels and 15,696 active on-demand titles across thirteen languages. The live stack is free-to-air HLS and official live streams, health-checked every six hours; a dead channel is hidden, not left to spin, and restored when it recovers. The on-demand shelves include sixty-one Turkish series (about 3,650 episodes), three hundred and thirty-three Arabic series (about 7,100 episodes), more than two thousand five hundred official Hindi films, and substantial Malayalam, Telugu, Bangla, Filipino, Pakistani, and Indonesian runs. Seven editorial guides were written by hand — not generated into thin URL sludge — covering dizi, Pakistani drama, Bollywood, Malayalam cinema, Arabic series, the expat free-TV problem, and why to cut the pirate box.

Every title is supposed to earn its place. The doctrine is official sources, free-to-air, public domain, or a contract. Before a title is shown it is checked for embeddability, duration, and per-country availability in all six GCC states. About 2,360 titles that failed those geo checks are hidden. Sanctioned and politically excluded sources are blacklisted. Rights-holder mail goes to legal@whisco.tv. There is no demo catalogue and no “we’ll fix the licence later” row.

Two constraints sit under that paragraph and an investor should not skip them.

First: most current on-demand playback is an official YouTube embed. On those plays the originating broadcaster earns the in-player advertising. Whisco earns, if and when AdSense is approved, display advertising on the page around the player. That is a content-site economy, not a Tubi economy. Anyone who models us on US AVOD CPMs without an own-player licensed file is modelling a company we are not yet.

Second: there is no meaningful audience number to put in this sentence. The domain is two weeks old. Cookieless web analytics were instrumented on 3 September. The Android app is in Play closed testing with twenty-six testers. The iOS app was submitted on 2 September and is waiting. Both store listings will say “Data Not Collected.” We will not invent a MAU to make a paragraph scan better. Early traffic, when it exists, will be reported as traffic.

The operating system behind the catalogue is the unfashionable part, and the part that makes a one-person company less absurd than it looks. The site runs on Next.js on Vercel Pro and Neon Postgres. Infrastructure is under fifty dollars a month. Uptime is polled every fifteen minutes. Channels are validated on a six-hour cycle. Discovery crons add from a vetted source list. A daily job updates Turkish episodes from official feeds. Dead rows are pruned weekly. Search engines are pinged when the catalogue changes. Community posts are drafted by automation and published only by a human. Catalog snapshots live in git. There is a rebuild-from-zero runbook. Thirty-day workflow success has been effectively complete, with one false-positive uptime alarm that produced a same-day hardening of the monitor, not a speech about culture.

This is what “moat” means at this scale. Not a patent. Not a twenty-person content team. A curated multi-language shelf that is boringly legal, a health system that hides rot, a geo fence that does not lie to a user in Muscat, and a brand that would rather tell you to pay TOD for football than pretend we have it. Curation plus automation plus trust. The first two are already in production. The third is a reputation we can only lose once.

The market is large. Our obtainable piece is small on purpose.

Middle East AVOD is variously printed at about $1.43 billion in 2025 rising to $2.60 billion in 2031 (Ken Research) or, on a wider Middle East and Africa definition, $3.29 billion rising to $5.92 billion (Mordor). Those figures are useful context and useless as a claim of capture. The planning number for people is twenty-eight to thirty-two million addressable viewers inside a thirty-one to thirty-five million non-national population, plus a thin spillover of nationals who watch the same South Asian and Turkish shelves. The planning number for money that a small independent can theoretically touch — after YouTube's own-platform take and after broadcaster-owned inventory — is an estimate of eighty to one hundred and fifty million dollars. Whisco's five-year serviceable obtainable share, in the base case of the companion plan, is on the order of one hundred and forty thousand monthly active users and about eighty thousand dollars of revenue. That is 0.1 to 0.2 percent of the dollar SAM. A serious reader should prefer that sentence to a slide that says "two percent of MENA OTT."

Growth, if it happens, will not come from a Super Bowl ad. It will come from WhatsApp captions in seven languages, from search pages that answer the actual query ("Malayalam movie that is legal to watch in Dubai"), from a weekly human reply in a community that has already been mapped (fifty-eight of them), and from store discovery once the apps are public. Telegram remains the pirate catalogue. We do not pretend to out-spam it. We intend to be the link a cousin is willing to forward because it will not embarrass the family group.

The model, the money, and the thing that changes the money

The brand promise is free forever. Revenue is advertising and, later, direct sponsorships sold against evidence. There will not be a premium SKU that still serves ads. There will not be a paywall with a free trial that debits a card.

Near-term revenue is Google display on pages, contingent on a re-review expected around mid-September 2026. The first AdSense decision was "low value content." The remediation was unglamorous and finished: thin URLs noindexed, sitemap cut to 2,680 quality addresses, seven written guides. The publisher account is active. The outcome is not.

The step-change is licensed files playing in our own player, where a Gulf pre-roll at eight to twenty dollars CPM is several times a display RPM of two to eight. That inventory does not exist until a marketplace or a studio says yes. Filmhub — an a16z-backed rights marketplace that places indie films and series onto streaming channels on revenue share — has the application and, in September 2026, extended a phone-call invitation. There is no signed deal. The terms we will sign are narrow: GCC-cleared titles, revenue share only, no minimum guarantee, no upfront fee, no exclusivity, start at one hundred to three hundred titles that fit a family room, measure, extend. The ingest path is designed and can be stood up in a day. It will not be stood up on hope.

Until those files exist, unit economics look like a publisher. After they exist, they start to look like a small AVOD. The companion plan runs three scenarios through August 2031. Conservative ends year five at 45,000 MAU and about $20,000 revenue. Base ends at 140,000 and about $80,000. Optimistic ends at 350,000 and about $248,000. All of those figures are projections. All of them assume the company stays inside a two-person constraint until the P&L pays for help. None of them require an external cheque to keep the site on. Infrastructure already fits inside a $200-per-month informal angel line, with a $300 one-time content and infrastructure budget approved. Burn is twenty-five to fifty dollars a month. Revenue is upside, not oxygen.

That last sentence is the opposite of most media decks. It is also the reason a small cheque, if one arrives, should buy acceleration rather than survival: company formation, a corporate account, the Filmhub CDN once a contract exists, television apps, a few months of paid acquisition after AdSense is green. It should not buy a content team, a sports package, or a head of growth.

Who runs it, and what that implies

Ali Albaharna is the founder and the entire executive bench. He is based in Bahrain. Engineering is executed through a tightly scoped AI-agent workflow under his direction. There is no hidden co-founder and no plan to invent a C-suite so a memo looks staffed. The constraint is design, not a temporary embarrassment: anything recommended to this company must be executable by two people or fewer with heavy automation.

The company is not yet a company. It is unincorporated. Bahrain abolished the SPC; the successor form is a single-shareholder with-limited-liability company. That is the vehicle. Proposed registered name: Whisco Media W.L.L., trading as Whisco TV. Formation is not optional colour. Without a CR there is no clean Filmhub counterparty, no corporate IBAN for Google or Apple, no ring-fence around the catalogue, and no instrument an angel can hold that is not a handshake. The formation pack already exists as templates. Filing is a ninety-day gate, not a 2028 aspiration.

What can make this wrong

YouTube can change embed rules and remove the majority of on-demand hours in a week. AdSense can reject the account a second time. Filmhub can decline, or accept on terms that include a minimum guarantee we will not pay. A well-capitalised regional player can copy the multi-language free positioning and ship better television apps. Apple or Google can decide the app looks like the IPTV neighbourhood we spent the doctrine avoiding. A rights holder can run a campaign against embeds we believed were official. The founder can get hit by a bus. The $200-per-month line can stop. Bahrain or another GCC state can decide an aggregator needs a broadcast-style licence we have not obtained.

Those are not footnotes. They are the underwrite. An investor who needs platform-risk to be zero should not write this cheque. An investor who needs a two-founder narrative should not write it either. The hedges we do have are written down: own-player files as a YouTube hedge, FTA HLS as a second spine, hide-don't-break on geo, a rebuild runbook, a second-signatory plan after formation, and a refusal to raise burn in anticipation of money that has not arrived.

The ask

There is no priced equity round. There is no valuation on this page, and inventing one would be theatre. What we want from a reader is three things, in order.

First, treat the companion business plan as a diligence memo. Push on the YouTube dependency, the AdSense gate, the Filmhub conversation, and the single-founder risk. If those are disqualifying, stop. That is a cheaper outcome for both sides than a polite maybe.

Second, if you are the person already sending $200 a month, let us put that relationship on one page — gift, loan, or future-equity side-letter — the week the commercial registration exists. Informal goodwill is how the lights stay on. It is also how later investors find a ghost claim.

Third, if you want to accelerate the ninety-day gates rather than watch them from the side, the useful cheque is small and optional: on the order of $40,000 to $75,000 on a simple instrument after incorporation. That money is for formation and counsel, a corporate account, licensed-file delivery once a no-MG deal exists, television-app QA, and paid acquisition only after ads are live. It is not for originals, not for sport, and not for headcount. The plan on file does not require it. The plan on file also does not pretend that a corporate bank account and a signed licence appear from discipline alone.

The next ninety days, with or without that cheque: ship Android production; take the iOS decision and fix once if needed; finish the AdSense re-review; hold the Filmhub call and sign only on clean terms; incorporate; keep community posting human and rare; do not hire; do not buy Meta traffic onto an unmonetised page.

If that sequence works, Whisco TV becomes a small, legal, multi-language living-room service with the right to look at year-three numbers and decide whether it stays a lifestyle publisher, talks to a telco, or earns a priced conversation. If it does not work, the loss is contained, the catalogue was never stolen, and nobody was told a fairy tale about ten million users.

The apartments are still there. The box is still for sale in the same WhatsApp chats. The legal shelf is still scattered. We already built the shelf. Now it has to stay honest long enough for a household to trust it more than a reseller they cannot find when the picture dies.

3. Investor teaser — one page for email

Not an offer of securities. Paste into an email or attach this section.

What it is. A free, 100% ad-supported (AVOD/FAST) streaming service for the 31–35 million expatriates in the six GCC states. No signup. No subscription. No pirated streams. Named after the founder's Shih Tzu. Live at whisco.tv since 20 August 2026.

The problem. A mixed-nationality Gulf apartment stacks ZEE5 + YuppTV + iWantTFC + Shahid, or buys a pirate IPTV box. Legal apps are siloed by language. Tubi and Pluto are not on iOS in AE/SA/BH. Across 15 audited apps the #1 complaint is ads on “free,” then ads after you pay. The true incumbent is the five-dinar box.

The product (5 Sep 2026, production). 581 live channels, health-checked every 6 hours. 15,696 on-demand titles in 13 languages (61 Turkish series, 333 Arabic series, 2,500+ official Hindi films, plus Malayalam, Telugu, Bangla, Filipino, Pakistani, Indonesian). Every title geo-checked for six GCC states; ~2,360 fails hidden. Seven hand-written guides. Android: Play closed testing, 26 testers. iOS: submitted 2 Sep 2026. Apps collect zero data.

The constraint. Most VOD is an official YouTube embed — the broadcaster earns in-player ads. Near-term surface is page display ads (AdSense mid-Sep re-review after a “low value content” remediation). Step-change is own-player licensed files. Filmhub: application in, phone invitation Sep 2026, no deal signed. We take rev-share only: no MG, no exclusivity, GCC-cleared.

Traction we will not invent. Domain is two weeks old. Cookieless analytics on since 3 Sep. No meaningful MAU. No revenue. Do not put a number in a forward.

Unit economics. Infra <$50/month, one founder + automation. Informal angel $200/month (undocumented goodwill) + $300 one-time. Display RPM $2–8 vs GCC video CPM $8–20 when own-player exists. FY5 projections: conservative 45k MAU / $20k rev; base 140k / $80k; optimistic 350k / $248k. Cash required to keep the lights on: $0.

Moat at this scale. Curation of a multi-language legal shelf + catalog automation + trust (anti-pirate brand, one ad per page never against the player, honesty about sport we do not have). Not a patent. Not a staffed studio.

Why Bahrain / the hole in the room. Founder on the ground. 0% CIT planning assumption. Intended vehicle: single-shareholder W.L.L. Currently unincorporated — first diligence item, not a footnote.

Risks in one line. YouTube embed rules, second AdSense rejection, Filmhub does not close, a telco copies the free multi-language wedge, store rejection, key-person.

The ask. No priced round. No valuation on this page. (1) Read the diligence memo. If YouTube-dependency or single-founder is disqualifying, stop. (2) Paper the existing $200/month the week a CR exists. (3) Optional acceleration cheque $40–75k after incorporation: formation + counsel, corporate account, licensed-file delivery once a no-MG contract exists, TV-app QA, paid acquisition only after ads are live. Not for originals, sport, or headcount.

90-day gates. Android production · iOS decision · AdSense · Filmhub on clean terms · incorporate · no hire · no Meta until ads pay.

Contact: legal@whisco.tv · whisco.tv · Data room, narrative, partnership one-pager, and policy templates on request.

4. Content partnership one-pager

For Filmhub-class marketplaces, sales agents, and rights holders. Not an investor teaser. Not a licence.

Who we are on your side of the table. Whisco TV is a free, advertising-supported streaming service for expatriate households in Bahrain, Saudi Arabia, the UAE, Kuwait, Qatar and Oman. We are not a pirate IPTV reseller, not a subscription OTT, and not an Arabic-premium studio. Trading name Whisco TV; site live 20 August 2026. Intended contracting entity: Whisco Media W.L.L., Kingdom of Bahrain (under formation). We will not ask you to sign a personal-name licence as a workaround. Founder: Ali Albaharna. Model: AVOD/FAST. Free forever. No paywall on your titles.

Why a rights holder should care. The Gulf living room is multi-language. Indians (~9–10.5 million across the GCC) plus large Pakistani, Bangladeshi, Filipino, Nepali, Indonesian, Sri Lankan and Arab-expat communities already watch South Asian drama, family and faith titles, thrillers, documentaries, and Turkish-style serials. Paid apps slice that room by language. Pirate boxes take the rest. We are the legal free surface in the middle. Tubi and Pluto are not listed on iOS in AE/SA/BH (Sep 2026). A GCC-cleared AVOD window still has shelf space.

| Reporting / pay            | Monthly title-level plays and ad revenue, automated. USD wire after corporate account post-CR. W-8BEN-E once the entity exists.       |
| Takedown                   | legal@whisco.tv; same-day hide on a valid notice.                                                                                     |

How your title earns. On official YouTube embeds, you (or the originating broadcaster) already earn the in-player ad. A file in our player is standard video advertising against a Gulf session — planning range $8–20 CPM pre-roll versus $2–8 display RPM — split with you on the licence schedule. We will not promise a household number we have not earned. We will promise working ingest, a geo fence, a report, and a product that does not sit your film beside a stolen live channel.

First-call checklist. (1) Confirm you can clear GCC AVOD on a rev-share, no-MG form. (2) Sample slate of 20–50 titles with territory flags, runtime, rating, language/subs. (3) Delivery spec. (4) Reporting and payment calendar. If those four are yes, we send the company profile, partner code of conduct, and — once the W.L.L. exists — the contracting pack.

If your standard paper requires an MG, a content-commitment, or exclusivity, we are the wrong buyer. Say so early.
